My own belief is that only by exploring this middle ground will we learn ways of imagining a better world for all of us: humans and nonhumans, rich people and poor, women and men, First Worlders and Third Worlders, white folks and people of color, consumers and producers—a world better for humanity in all of its diversity and for all the rest of nature. By now it should be clear that this for the most part is an illusion. There are a handful that are certainly worth reading. The striking power of the wild is that wonder in the face of it requires no act of Preview this item Preview this item. ISBN: pbk. Other titles from Norton. Animals, Welfare and the Law.
