Philadelphia: W. What is the meaning and value of this feverish activity?

This principle is the great spring of the activity of four minds, and their chief. As castes disappear, as classes come closer together, as common practices, customs, and laws vary because men are mixed tumultuously together, as new facts arise, as new truths come to light, as old opinions disappear and as others take their place, the image of an ideal and always fleeting perfection presents itself to the human mind. If that does happen, the bright return stroke of negative charge dumping into the ground works its way up along the branch that touches the ground, and when it reaches and passes the branching point on its way up to the cloud, a bright stroke appears to go down the other branch.
